Elizabeth (Liz) Berney's race for Congress epitomizes the conflicts of our times. Liz believes in keeping America and Israel strong and appropriately responding to terror and the Iranian nuclear threat. By contrast, her opponent has been using his Congressional position (as Chairman of the House Mideast Subcommittee) to pursue appeasement policies and useless talks with Ahmadinejad, vote against protections for citizens who report terror, fund the Palestinians with our tax dollars, criticize Israel for its lifesaving roadblocks, and disparage and pressure Israel. It is a very critical race.

In 2008, Ms. Berney became so alarmed with her Congressman's record that she decided to run against him. Her aggressive, quixotic 2008 campaign was fascinating and inspiring. She raised citizen's awareness of issues, almost knocked the incumbent off of two of his ballot lines after he filed fraudulent election petitions, received an impressive 45,000 votes on a shoestring budget, brought pride to the Republican ticket, and helped pave the way for Republican victories in 2009 in local races in her district.

Ms. Berney also served as a "surrogate" for McCain for local debates in 2008. While her Congressman claimed that Obama would be "good for Jews and Israel," Ms. Berney warned that Obama would be dreadful for Jews and Israel. Ms. Berney has continued to speak about Obama's dangerous national security and Israel policies, health care, spending, energy independence, and other issues of concern.

Ms. Berney is running for Congress again in 2010, and this time has a real shot at winning. If elected, she would be the only Jewish Republican Congresswoman. We hope that you will be part of this winning effort.

We would be delighted to see you on July 13th! Donation (whatever you can afford) requested.
